A review is presented of the literature on prognostic factors in malignant gliomas. An ideal staging and prognostic system should not only be accurate, practical, readily available, applicable to all patients and cost effective but at the same time base itself on known factors which are known to be important in glioma prognosis. These are the presence of anaplastic astrocytomas (AA), the grade of malignancy of astrocytomas, the status of the tumor and most importantly the patient's functional status. These factors combine to produce the following scheme: $H = K + G + C + S + P$. H = Primary grade, K = Extent of the tumor within the brain, G = Grading malignancy, C = Extent of resection of the tumor, S =
