23.[Primary experiment study of detecting pancreatic polypeptide (PP) content in pancreatic juice and blood]. To detect pancreatic polypeptide (PP) content in pancreatic juice and blood, and to evaluate their clinical application value. Thirty-two healthy volunteers and 32 patients (12 with chronic pancreatitis, 16 with gastric carcinoma, 4 with intrahepatic cholangiocarcinoma) were studied. Plasma PP concentration and pancreatic juice PP content were measured by radioimmunoassay. The plasma PP concentration in patients with chronic pancreatitis (2.39 +/- 0.54), gastric carcinoma (2.41 +/- 0.63) and intrahepatic cholangiocarcinoma (2.52 +/- 0.66) were significantly higher than that in the healthy volunteers (1.66 +/- 0.16). The PP content in pancreatic juice (4.48 +/- 1.56), plasma (16.3 +/- 2.34) in patients with chronic pancreatitis were significantly higher than those in patients with gastric carcinoma (1.48 +/- 1.17, 2.06 +/- 0.52), intrahepatic cholangiocarcinoma (0.85 +/- 0.18, 0.80 +/- 0.32). The PP content in pancreatic juice has a certain accuracy of diagnosis. We proposed that the clinical application of pancreatic polypeptide in human body, not only for the diagnosis of pancreatic disease, but also for related treatment and prevention, could be studied.A

On Monday, March 8, Kamloops RCMP arrested 21-year-old Nathaniel Walsh on a Canada-wide warrant and charged him with second-degree murder, unlawful confinement and criminal confinement in relation to the Jan. 23 death of 37-year-old Michael Walsh. On Sunday, an investigator with the Mounties went to a home on Northeast Grover Avenue, where Michael Walsh's body was discovered on Jan. 23. A post-mortem was conducted on the body, but RCMP are not releasing any further details. The RCMP are also not disclosing the cause of death. Michael Walsh was scheduled to appear in court Monday, March 29, and his next court date is April 13. Q: Can I flag for moderator's attention when the question is closed as a duplicate? A user recently posted a question which was promptly closed as a duplicate. He was unhappy with that and was prepared to post a bounty. But then the question was promptly closed again as a duplicate. I've flagged it for a moderator's attention, assuming he'll consider the question closed and would see the bounty request. The comment says "duplicate of [...]" so I assume that's what I should be flagging it for, but that 0cc13bf012 Australia has a rich invertebrate fauna, however the terrestrial invertebrates are well known. Few aquatic invertebrates have been systematically documented. An exception is the leech fauna, which has been reviewed in detail and the taxonomy revised. A set of species guides to the taxonomy, distribution, ecology and conservation of aquatic Australian leeches has been compiled.

The review is split into three parts, based on a taxonomic overview, with a reference section for each. We provide here a compendium of the aquatic leech fauna of Australia, with an appendix of literature from which the distribution of species was derived. We present a list of the aquatic species of leeches in Australia, whether native or introduced, with their distribution and conservation status. We include a short description of the biology of each species, but we do not give a detailed overview of the biology and taxonomy of these diverse organisms. Australia has a rich fauna of leeches, and it is important that the resources required to conserve these invertebrates are identified and prioritised.
